HabbitQuest Product Tour

Nov 3, 2026 · @Rahul

What families see, screen by screen: kids play picture quests, grown-ups approve them, and an AI coach suggests what to try next.

At a glance

the two journeys · 5 steps each

The child does the quests; the grown-up appears only to plan, approve and reward.

1. Getting started

A family is set up in under a minute: sign in with Google, name the family, add the first child.

HabbitQuest How it works Habits Worlds For parents Get started

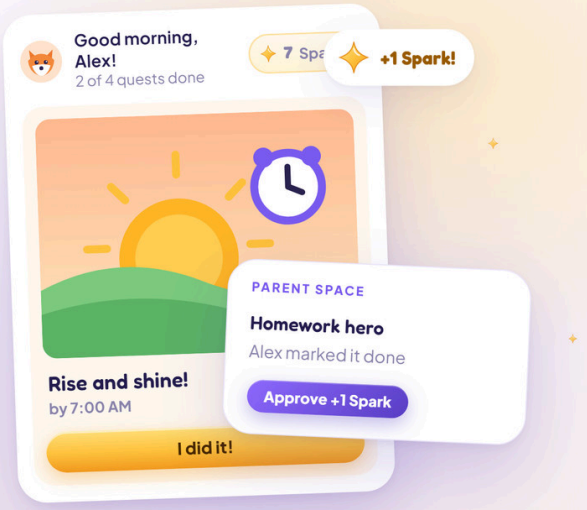

FOR FAMILIES WITH KIDS AGED 3 TO 13

Little habits. Big adventures.

Everyday routines become picture quests your child loves. Every quest you approve earns a Spark, and Sparks unlock new worlds to explore.

A SIMPLE DAILY JOURNEY

Five small steps, every day

1. Parents choose Pick the habits that matter and set the times that suit your family.
2. Kids see pictures Each habit becomes a bright picture quest with a clock to match.
3. "I did it!" Your child taps the quest when it's done. No reading needed.
4. You approve A quick check from you, protected by your parent PIN.
5. Sparkle! A Spark lands in their jar, and Sparks unlock new worlds.

- Kids' own devices sign in with the family code (a QR code) and the child's own PIN.

2. The parent dashboard

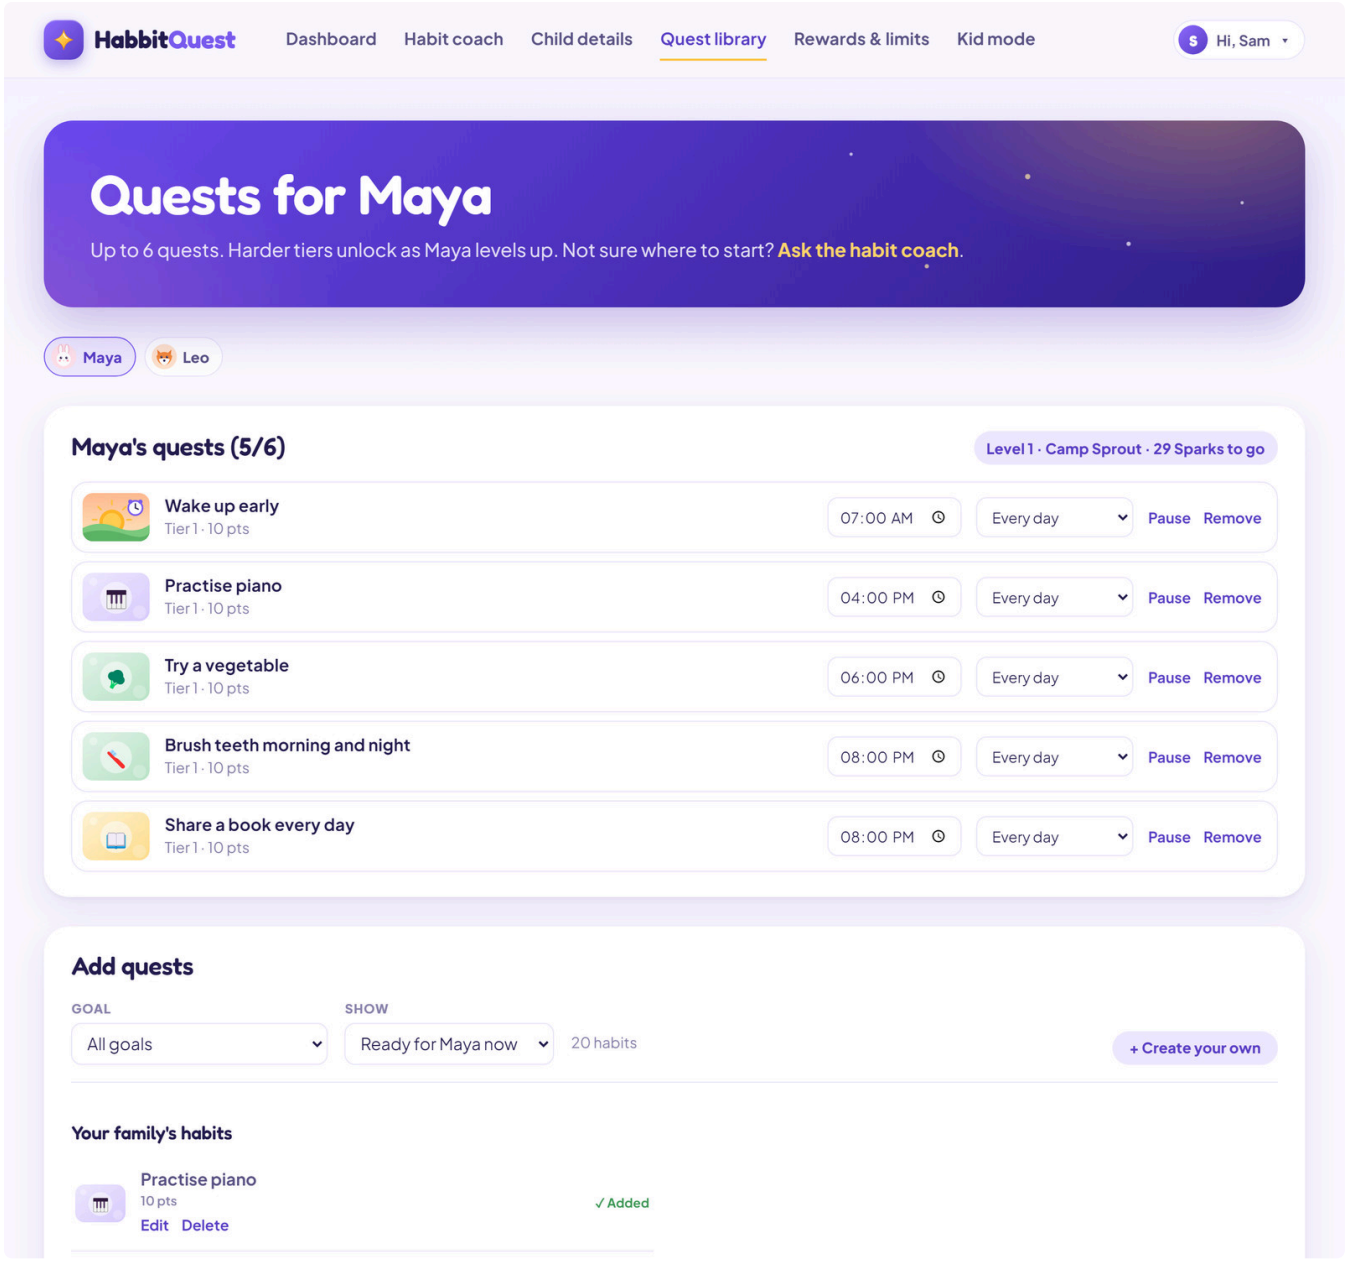

One screen answers "what needs me today?": quests waiting for approval, then each child's progress.

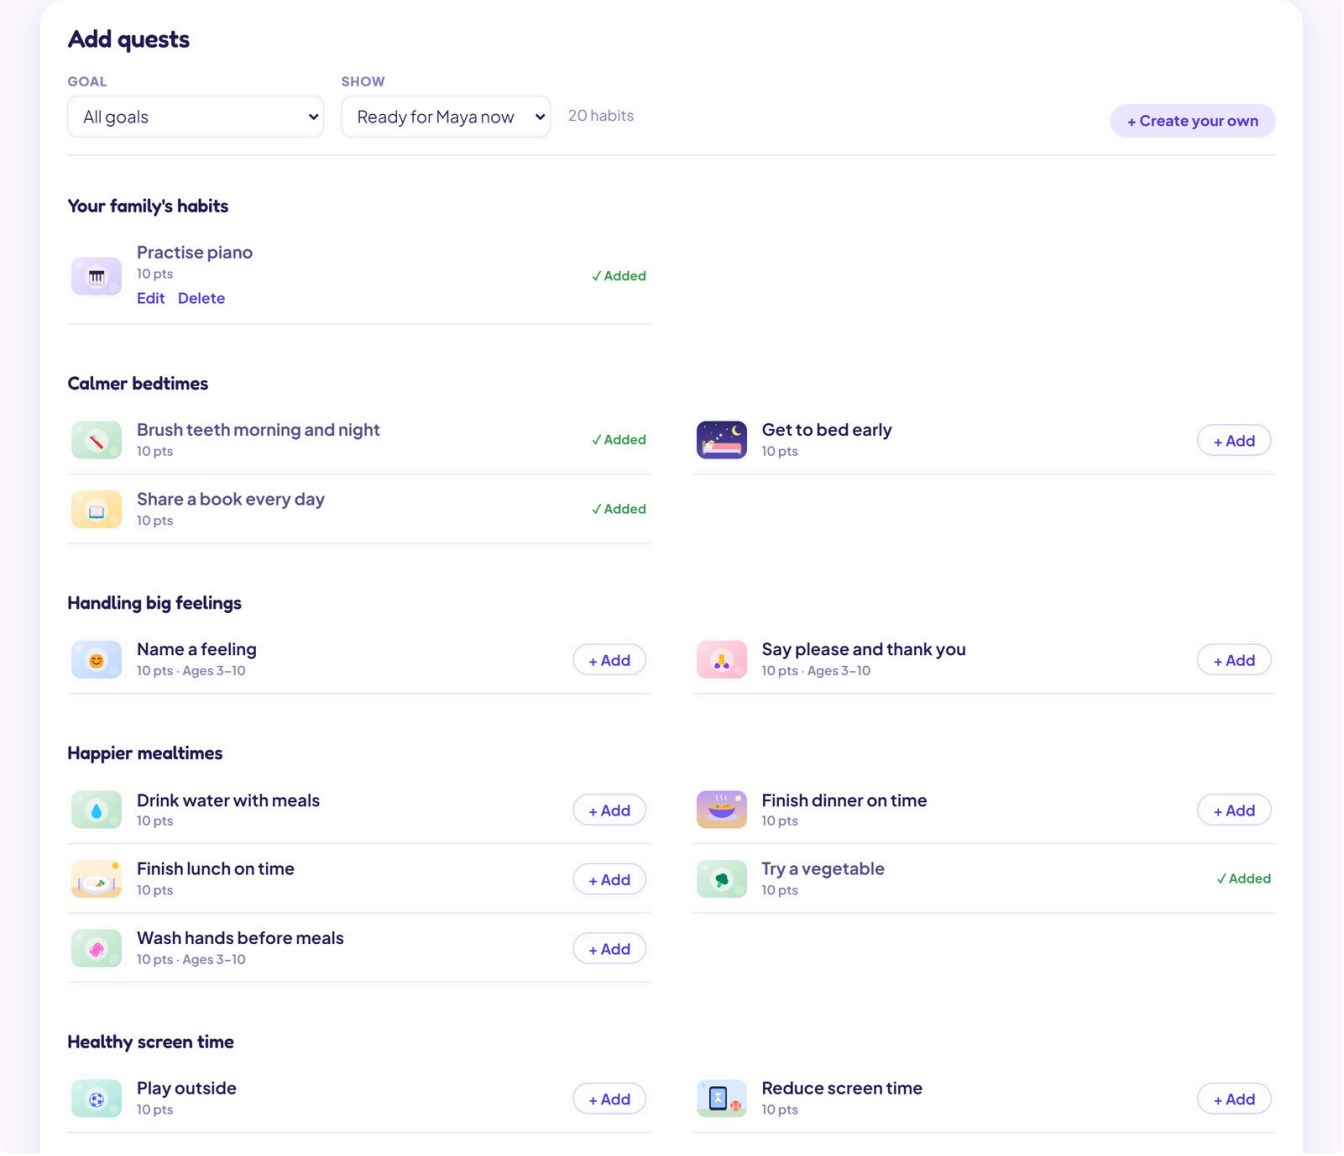

On the dashboard	What it does
Waiting for your OK	Approve (+Sparks, +points) or Not yet, one tap each
Child cards	Today's progress, Sparks, points, level, minutes in the app
Below the fold	Reward requests, kids' check-ins, surprises, AI suggestions and weekly review

3. Quest library

Each child gets up to 6 quests, each with its own time and days. Harder tiers unlock as the child earns Sparks.

- 41 catalog habits in 8 goals, tagged by age (3-13) and tier (1-3).
- Create your own: up to 30 family habits, such as "Practise piano". Their text never goes to the AI.

4. Habit coach

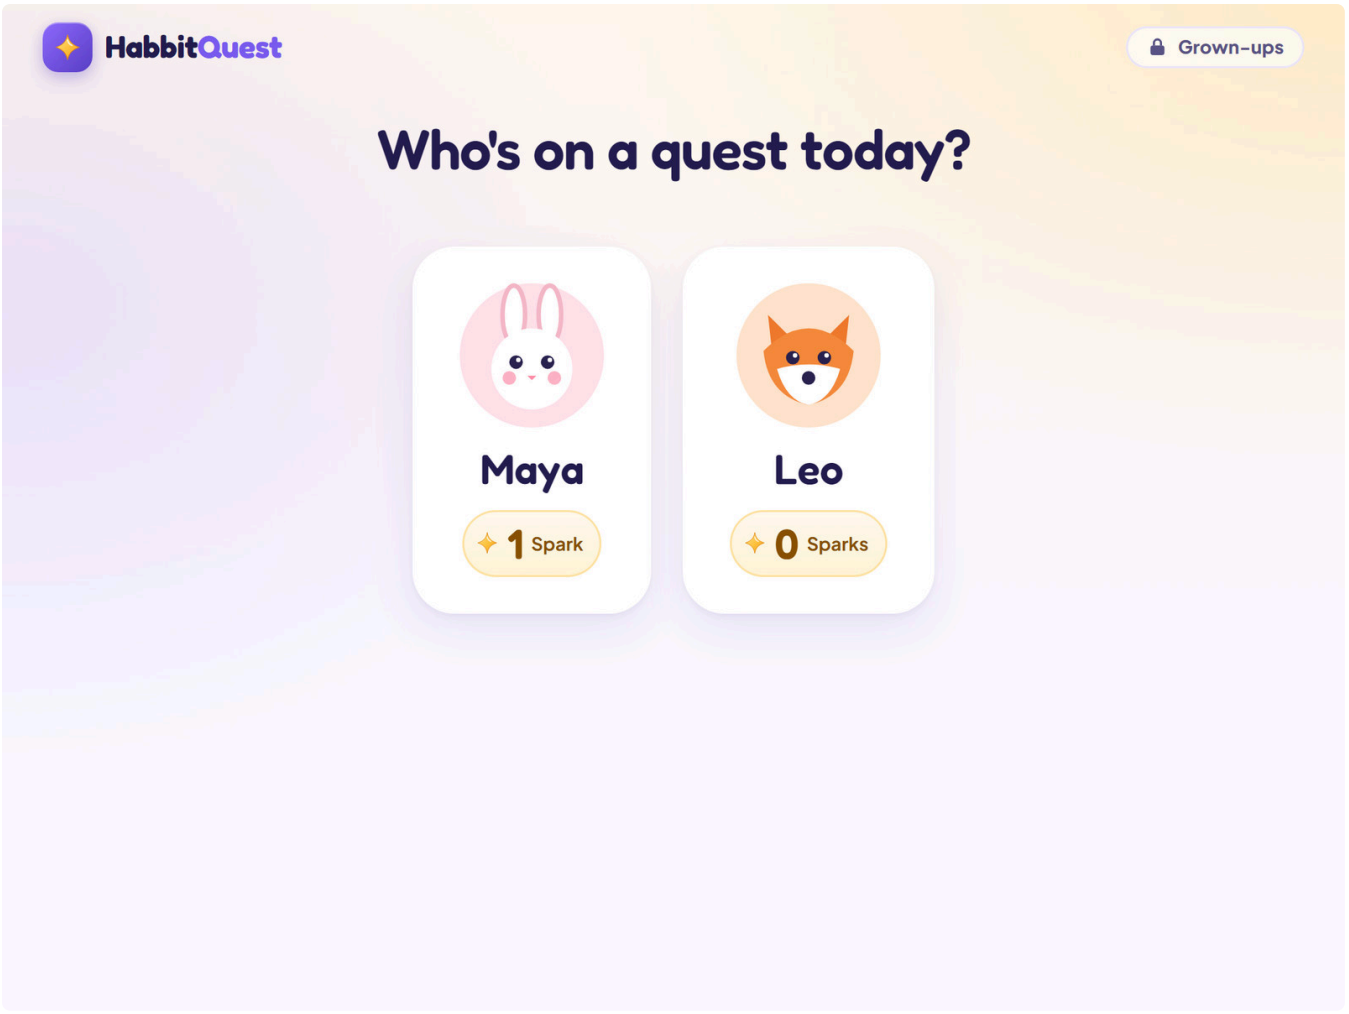

A parent describes a problem in plain words; the coach answers with cited advice and quest cards. This is a real answer from the coach crew running on Groq:

- Sources under every reply name the guidance it used.
- Cards, not changes: nothing joins the plan until a grown-up taps Add. Too hard or Something different asks again.
- How the crew works is in the AI deep dive.

5. Kid mode

Picture-first, so a 3-year-old can use it without reading. A grown-up taps Open kid mode, or a child signs in on their own device.
