HabbitQuest Executive Brief

Nov 3, 2026 · @Rahul

HabbitQuest is a habit game for children aged 3 to 13 with an AI coach parents can trust. It is built, tested and ready for a 50-100 family pilot; the ask is a pilot, a small team and paid hosting.

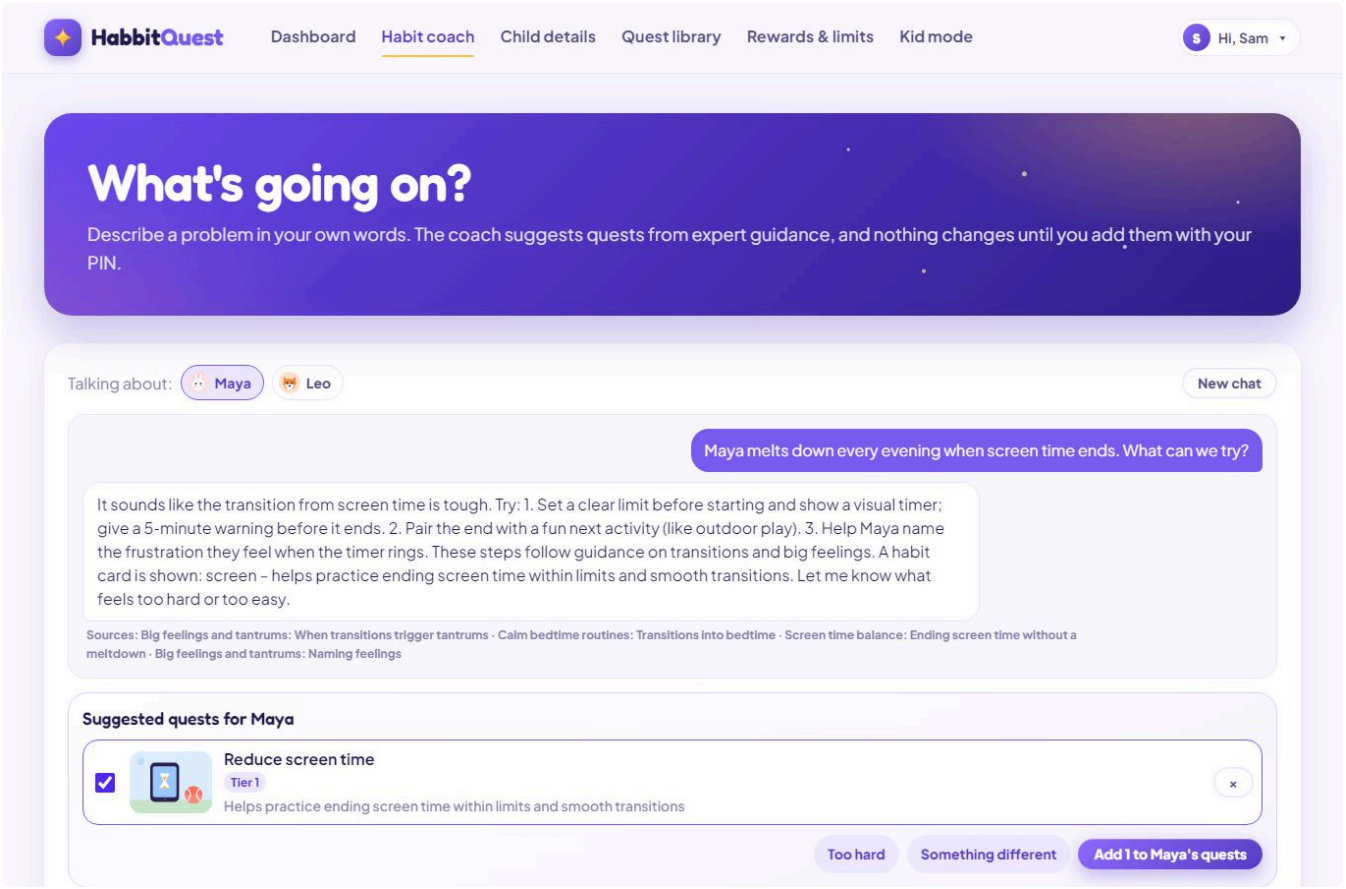

The product

The problem, and the answer

Parents say	HabbitQuest does
"I nag all day"	Picture quests with a clock remind the child; the parent only approves
"Sticker charts fade in a week"	Sparks, six worlds, chests and surprises keep it fresh
"I don't know what to try"	An AI coach answers with cited, age-fit advice and quest cards
"Screen time ends in tears"	A daily kid-mode limit, a gentle break screen, screen time as a reward

Why it wins

No alternative combines a kids' game, parent coaching and child-safety rules.

	Game for kids	Coaches the parent	Real rewards	Built for ages 3-13	Price
HabbitQuest	Yes	Yes, cited AI coach	Yes	Yes, picture-first	Free; $4.99/mo plan proposed
Joon	Yes	No	In-game	6-12	$12.99/mo
Habitica	RPG	No	Self-set	13+	$4.99/mo
Greenlight	No	No	Real money	Kids, teens	$5.99-19.98/mo
OurPact	No	No	No	Families	$6.99-9.99
Goally	Routines	No	Points	2-8	$295 device

Prices as listed on each company's site or App Store page, read 29-30 October 2026.

What is built today

Product	16 screens: parent area and kid mode, on phone, tablet and laptop
AI coach	A crew of 6 agents; passes 37 of 41 realistic test cases, 0 unsafe replies
Safety	6 layers between a model and a child; a child at risk gets crisis guidance
Privacy	Each family's data fenced off in the database; the AI sees labels, never names
Quality	452 automated tests run on every change; backend coverage 100%
Hosting	API and database live on Render (free tiers today)

Details: the Product Tour (every screen), the AI Deep Dive and Engineering & Quality.

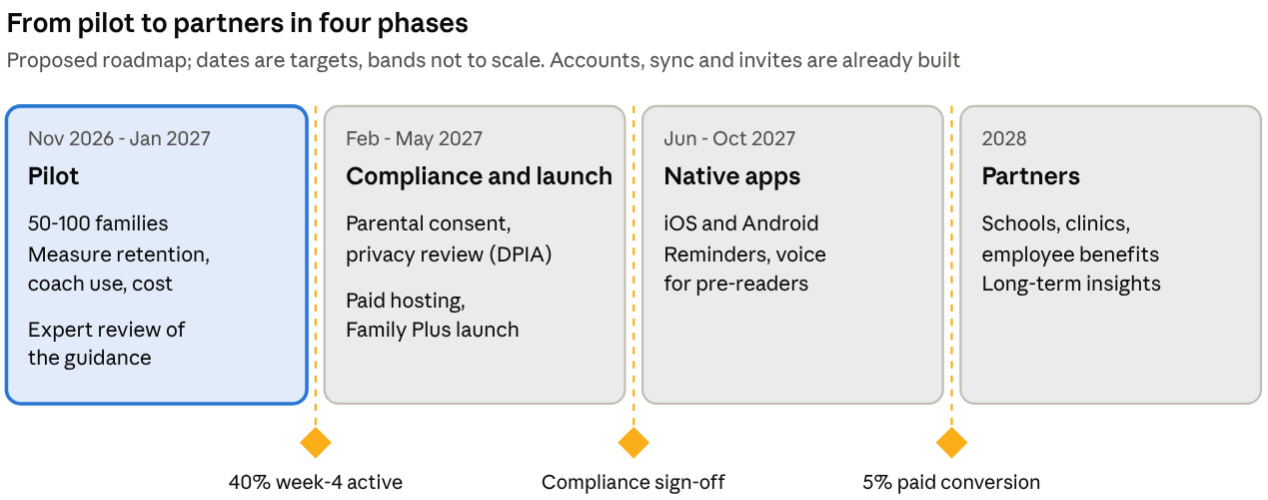

Business model and cost

Freemium: the game is free; the AI coach is the paid plan. Prices are proposals to test in the pilot.

Plan	Includes	Price
Free	The full quest game, approvals, rewards, check-ins, time limits; up to 2 children	$0
Family Plus	Plus the AI coach, weekly review, quest planner, buddy lines; unlimited children	$4.99/month or $39.99/year

AI cost is estimated under $0.10 per active family a month on Groq's open models (about 20 coach turns), under 2% of the Family Plus price; app-store fees (15-30%) are the larger cost. To be measured in the pilot.

Roadmap and the ask

roadmap · 4 phases, 3 gates

1. Approve the pilot (November 2026 to January 2027): 50-100 families; success = 40% active 4+ days a week at week 4 and zero unsafe AI text shown to a child.
2. Fund a small team: one full-stack engineer, part-time design, a child-development advisor, privacy counsel.
3. Move to paid hosting before the pilot: database (the free one expires on 28 November 2026), an always-on API, Groq's paid tier.
4. Decide pricing and the first market: confirm $4.99 a month, or test two prices.

Top risks

Risk	Handled by
Children's privacy law (COPPA, GDPR-K)	Data minimised, export and deletion built; parental consent and a privacy review before launch
Unsafe AI text reaches a child	Six safety layers, fail-closed reviews, parent alerts; red-team tests planned
Free hosting expires (database on 28 Nov 2026)	Paid database and always-on API before the pilot
Retention fades after the novelty	Worlds, chests, surprises; the pilot measures week-4 activity